

Content Inventory of

GREENBELT News Review

An Independent Newspaper

Introduction

As part of the process to form a strategic plan for developing a new online presence for Greenbelt News Review (GNR), a detailed content inventory and analysis was performed of existing paper editions of the newspaper. The content inventory will be used primarily for Phase 1 of the strategic implementation plan, in which the content, structure and spirit of the existing printed paper will be rendered online.

January 17, 2008	February 14, 2008	March 13, 2008

The three editions of the paper which were analyzed were the January 17, 2008, February 14, 2008, and March 13, 2008 editions. Based on the sample, the paper averages 13 pages in length, and content tends to be laid out in a pattern based on 5 columns. On a typical page some amount of the content appears spanning 2 or more columns. Of the 39 pages sampled, only 1 page consisted of 5 columns of uninterrupted text. If one disregards paid content, pictures, and administrative content, this number goes all the way up to 21 pages, so the basic rule is that news content (unpaid content), except for pictures, tends to be presented in the 5-column format and paid content and graphic elements make up almost all of the multi-column content.

Diagram of Content Categories

The paper's content was divided into three parent "content types": News Content, Paid Content and Administrative Content. Within these content types, content items were each assigned one of twenty-eight discrete categories.

This high-level hierarchical categorization provides a powerful suggestion of what should be the prevailing navigational hierarchy for the Phase 1 implementation. Further analysis of the raw content inventory data has revealed many other notable facts which will affect the larger implementation; key findings are summarized in the conclusion sections. The raw content inventory data is also included as an appendix to show a more complete picture of the content inventory and analysis deliverable.

Section 1. News Content

Conventional wisdom defines “News” as anything that is new or related to current events. Since the Greenbelt News Review is a community newspaper, the news content in GNR has a narrow focus that almost exclusively centers on the city of Greenbelt, and eschews much county, state, national or international news.

The News Content type is made up of traditional editorial content created by professional or para-professional writers, and which also includes other non-paid content which serves the mission of the paper such as notices and narratives about upcoming community events, police-issued information about local crime, letters to the editor, notices of the accomplishments and events in the lives of people in the community, an occasional set of movie listings, and locally created comic. In short, the news parent category contains all non-paid content.

Community Events

The Community Events section features one column descriptions of upcoming events that range from about 50 - 300 words. They succinctly cover the who, what, where and when of an event and only occasionally include a graphic. These are similar in length and content to other event listings throughout the paper that are not published in this section.

Community Events are one of the main foci of the GNR

The prominent focus on event content extends beyond the Community Events section: Overall more than 25% of content items are some sort of an event. For this reason, an online calendar seems like a shrewd Phase 2 enhancement to the online paper. The goal for this feature should be to seek an effective way to present a useful overview of important event details that have historically been scattered throughout the printed paper.

Police Blotter

The Police Blotter varies in size, but is typically two or three columns in width and features information on local crimes from assaults to vandalism. Though the details come from the Greenbelt Police Department, the blurbs are written by GNR writers. It also includes a box at the bottom that encourages readers to report drug tips and unsolved crimes.

Letters to the Editor

Sometimes called Letters and other times called Letters to the Editor, a more appropriate consistent title for this section might be Letters to the Community. On occasion, there is a letter addressed to the editor of GNR in response to a story, but based on the sample, the majority of the letters are notes of thanks to members of the community who have helped make a local event successful.

Our Neighbors

Our Neighbors is a small, one column section that highlights personal events in Greenbelt residents' lives. Readers are encouraged to send "reports of new babies, awards, honors, etc. to share".

On Screen

This does not appear in every edition, so it may be a matter of space. It's a short review of a movie currently playing at the Old Greenbelt Theatre, which advertises its movie times in the GNR. If it turns out that this is paid content, then it should appear more clearly to be so.

Grin Belt

This is a single panel comic which always features squirrels and typically touches on timely events, like the rising price of gasoline.

Robberies
January 5, 10:31 a.m., 6100 block Bromwood Court, a man reported that he was walking into an apartment building when a young man approached him. The young man struck him in the face with a handgun and demanded money. After obtaining the man's wallet, the young man fled the scene on foot. He is described as a black male in his late 20s to early 30s, 5'10", 180 pounds with black hair, wearing a black hooded sweatshirt or jacket and black pants.

January 6, 7:41 p.m., 6000 block Springfield Drive, a food delivery person reported that he was on foot attempting to make a delivery when he couldn't find the address and returned to his vehicle. As he walked back to his vehicle, he was approached by two young men. One of them displayed a handgun and demanded money. After obtaining money both young men fled the scene on foot. They are described as two black males, both 17 to 20 years of age, 5'9" to 5'11" and weighing 130 to 150 pounds. One had black hair in braids and brown eyes and was wearing a green sweat suit; the other had black hair and was wearing a gray hooded sweat suit.

January 8, 11:24 p.m., 9100 block Edmonston Court, a food delivery person reported that he attempted to make a delivery at an apartment residence but there was no answer at the door. As he exited the apartment building he was accosted by two young men, who punched and kicked him several times while announcing a robbery. After taking the delivery person's wallet, they fled the scene on foot. The victim was treated by ambulance personnel for minor injuries and released on the scene. The suspects are described as two black males 16 to 18 years of age, 150 to 170 pounds with black hair, each wearing a black jacket and black pants.

January 9, 10:37 p.m., 9100 block Edmonston Road, a food delivery person reported that he attempted to make a delivery at an apartment residence but the residents there stated that they did not place an order. The delivery person then used a cell phone to call the number given and a person said that he would be out shortly to get the order. A short time later a man approached him in the apartment building hallway displaying a large knife. The man demanded money and the food and fled the scene on foot. The suspect is described as a black male 20 to 25 years of age, 5'8" with a slim build, wearing a black hat, a black jacket and black pants.

January 9, 9:29 p.m., Beltway Plaza, a resident youth was arrested for trespass when he was observed on the mall property after having been previously warned by agents of the property. The youth attempted to flee the area on foot but was apprehended after a short foot chase. He was released to a parent pending action by the juvenile justice system.

Vandalism
January 4, 4:31 p.m., 7700 block Midland Road, it was reported that someone broke out the window of a residence.

January 5, 3:39 p.m., 6200 block Bromwood Drive, it was reported that unknown person(s) spray-painted graffiti inside an apartment building.

January 7, 6:14 p.m., 6000 block Springfield Drive, it was reported that someone threw rocks through a bedroom window, shattering it.

January 10, 9:40 a.m., Roosevelt Center, it was reported that unknown person(s) spray-painted graffiti on a trash dumpster.

Burglary
January 9, 8:49 a.m., 9100 block Edmonston Tower, a break in was reported at a residence that had recently been vacated due to an eviction. A witness saw someone break a bedroom window, climb into the apartment and then exit with what appeared to be personal papers. The suspect is described as a black male, wearing a blue jacket and a black wool cap.

Vehicle Crimes
No vehicles were reported as stolen.

Three vehicles were recovered, one by Greenbelt police with no arrest and two by outside departments with an arrest made in one recovery.

Theft from and attempted theft of vehicles were reported in the following areas: 7800 block Mat-dae Road, 7300 block Haverover Parkway (two incidents), 7500 block Greenway Center Drive, 38 Court Ridge Road, 6100 block Bromwood Drive, 9100 block Edmonston Road and 6200 block Springfield Court.

The Department is offering a reward of up to $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a suspect in any of the unsolved crimes reported in the blotter. People may anonymously report suspected drug activity by calling the Drug Tip Line at 301-507-6522.

News Content Conclusions

Overall GNR News Content is easy to distinguish from paid content. This distinction is established visually through a presentation of unboxed text, always with a heading, and sometimes with an attributed author. News Content is typically unadorned by graphical embellishments, and tends to be presented at the tops of pages.

Following the normal pattern of print newspaper publishing, the GNR typically breaks big stories, particularly on the first page, and continues them on later pages of the paper. This is a convention that will likely continue in the electronic presentation of the paper, although it is unlikely to ever need to happen more than once (i.e., no story will ever need to be continued more than one time). However, since the home page navigation will be the first stop for much of the online audience, many more stories will tend to be introduced there with a headline and perhaps a few lines, to be continued in full on subordinate pages of content.

This underscores an important difference in the usability and functionality of the traditional paper versus the Phase 1 online paper. In fact, this is a source of risk for Phase 1 of the implementation, which endeavors to change as little as possible while developing and implementing a workflow for converting the content to the online medium.

The ultimate goal will likely be to adopt prevailing online news conventions and present categorized sets of links on the home page in Phase 2 and beyond. However, this is not necessarily going to be applied right away, because there is an editorial dimension to writing summaries, and crafting headlines which are fine-tuned for the Web. The decision of whether and how to stay faithful to the traditional paper in this respect is likely to be one of the most important in the whole implementation; it alone may determine the success of Phase 1, especially if it is not immediately followed by Phase 2.

Section 2. Paid Content

Paid Content in the Greenbelt News Review (GNR) is defined as any item that a third party has paid to place in the paper. This includes Classifieds, Ads, City Information, Obituaries and specialized announcements. However, it seems that there are some grey areas which might need to be carefully thought through in order to communicate clearly to the audience whether a various content item is paid or not.

Classifieds

The GNR Classifieds include a wide range of categories, including Help Wanted, Lost, Merchandise, Notices, Rates, Real Estate Sale, Real Estate Rental, Services, Wanted and Yard Sales. These change dramatically from edition to edition, and for that reason, the classified categories gathered in the sample are not exhaustive and would not be sufficient to plan the implementation of online classifieds.

However, online classifieds are very likely to be an area where considerable thought and evolution goes into finding the best way to adapt the print classified content to the online medium.

Advertisements

In the course of this analysis, ads were broken-down in just three categories: general, medical and religious. Ad content is highly unstructured, and beyond the conventions of positioning, framing, and formatting ads to appear different than "News", there was little consistent similarity between ads in the sample, that held consistent enough to draw further conclusions.

What can be said is that the content inventory strongly supports the premise that GNR currently accepts advertising only from local establishments and this limited focus may be one explanation for keeping ad rates below market value. This is possibly to benefit local religious organizations, which make up a significant subset of GNR's total ads, and other co-operative/non-profit community establishments that may not have invested extensively in marketing.

City Information

This is a four-column ad that is paid for by the City Council and typically takes up the majority of a page. It offers a variety of upcoming meetings and events sponsored by or closely tied to the City Council. It is an effective way to call attention to municipal information like City Office hours and Greenbelt Animal Shelter adoption days.

Obituaries

Although obituaries are sometimes listed under Our Neighbors, there is a separate Obituaries section that is more detailed. The distinction between these sections is assumed to be that obituaries are paid announcements. If not, then their editorial content should be thought of as part of the News parent category.

Specialized Announcements

Around the holidays, specialized seasonal content can appear in the GNR. For example, the February 14 edition contains Love Notes for Valentine's Day. In addition to providing an additional source of revenue, these also are a great way to engage readers.

Paid Content Conclusions

Overall, GNR Paid Content is easy to distinguish from News Content. The distinction is established visually through a presentation of boxed content, often with a heading, but not one which is easily confused with "News". Paid Content is often adorned by graphical embellishments, and tends to be presented at the sides and bottoms of pages.

One the great remaining questions of the Phase 1 implementation will be how to faithfully convert to electronic, paid content which has historically been sold in part with the physical position in the paper in mind. Since the Web differs from paper in so many ways, this is a place where no single obvious path exists.

Many online publications use a convention of cycling ads to overcome the placement conundrum. This seems like a false substitute, and one which might be wise to pass on. One important reason for GNR is that their advertisers are community members and the content in the paper and the ads which appear on the same pages seem to share a real affinity for and synergy with one another.

The strongest commingling of paid and non-paid content occurs on the classified pages. However, gangs of related ads cluster together in many parts of the paper. For example, in the case of the religious ads, which comprise 43 of the 127 ads reviewed, they tend to appear with related News Content which has a community bent. This means that randomly cycling ads could end up depriving the ads of the benefits they enjoy appearing together; likewise cycling could result in unsettling combinations of ads and News Content which would not be optimal.

St. Hugh's Celebrates 60th Anniversary of Founding

by Kathleen McFarland

On December 16, St. Hugh of Grenoble parish commemorated the 60th anniversary of its founding with a special mass and dinner. The mass was celebrated by Bishop Martin Hickey of the Archdiocese of Washington. Five members of Sisters of the Holy Cross who had taught at St. Hugh's School were in attendance at the mass and the "Garden Sunday" dinner which followed in the church hall.

Guidance, or "joyful" Sunday, is the third Sunday of Advent, when the rose-colored candles on the Advent wreath is lit in signify that Christmas will soon be here. At the dinner in the decorated hall Bishop Hickey gave a blessing and offered congratulations.

In a short program Father Walter Tappe, pastor of St. Hugh's, gave a brief history of the parish. He told how Father Victor Dowling was sent to Greenbelt to establish the new parish in June 1947. Before that time Greenbelt had been a mission church of Holy Redeemer in Berwyn.

Father Dowling chose the name of the new parish to honor an uncle or mentor (the story varies) named Hugh. There are at least 10 saints named Hugh. "While not on anyone's list of the 100 best-known saints," Father Tappe said, "St. Hugh of Grenoble, France, a bishop who lived in the 12th century, was a good and much-loved man." The church hall is named Grenoble Hall because of this connection.

Father Tappe then invited longtime parishioner Margaret Zaitz to the podium. Zaitz told of the "olden days" when Greenbelt Catholics attended mass in the town theater. "You just haven't lived until you've gone to mass in a theater," she said, giving an amusing account of marching up the steps and across the stage to receive Holy Communion and then, back at her seat, trying to kneel on a slipping floor.

Later on when mass was held in the newly built school, the troubles continued. There, metal kneeling benches attached to the folding chairs made loud clanking sounds at inappropriate times and, if not aligned correctly, were prone to buckling under, leaving the praying person onto the floor.

Next, Sister St. Hugh, one of the original group of sisters who came to staff the school, back and forth each day from the convent in the 58 Court of Cosmore Road, since at that time they were not allowed to drive. Sometimes they walked or Father Dowling, who lived in another unit of St. Court, drove them. Later, a committee of mothers took turns driving the sisters to and from school until finally they were given permission to drive themselves.

She told of the many fundraising efforts - bake sales, fashion shows, pledge drives - which were held, first to get money to build the school in 1949, then the Rectory and, finally, St. Hugh's real church. In 1964 she attended the official dedication of the new church and remembers how proud Father Dowling was of it. Zaitz ended with the hope that another celebration will be held for the 60th anniversary - not the 75th - because she wants to be around to attend it.

Several alumni of the school then took the microphone. Kathy Lohman and Peggy Madden Mollen, both of the class of 1964, told amusing tales of their school days. There was the first class to hold their graduation ceremony in the new church. Judy Holland, class of 1954, the very first graduating class, who had started out at Holy Redeemer school, summed up how the years had flown by. She said that this year she is looking forward to the 50th session of the Saint Thome High School class of 1958.

The 100 or so attendees then finished their delicious dinner, prepared and served by Gloria Winfrey and her crew of teenagers and ladies of the Sodality, and sang Christmas carols accompanied by accordion Phil Venetta. Father Tappe thanked the committee of Cindy Perry, Beth Osborne, Mari Galvin and all who had helped to make the day so memorable.

Every breath that we breathe is a blessing from God and we learn from the Prophet Solomon (peace be upon him) to recognize these blessings each day. The Holy Quran tells us how he never forgot to be thankful to God. He is quoted to have said, "This is by the grace of my Lord, to let me know whether I am grateful or ungrateful. And if I am grateful, it is to gain for his own soul, but if I am ungrateful, truly my Lord is free of all needs, supreme in honor."

Synergies between ads and content

This issue is also made more significant because the proportion of News Content to Ad Content is so close to 50/50. This is a significant clue that the plan for the online version has to reflect the importance of these community ads to the mission of the community paper.

Section 3. Administrative Content

Several items in each edition fall under the category of Administrative Content. The boilerplate which credits the publisher of the paper always appears on the bottom right hand corner of the second page. This convention mirrors the Library of Congress information in books, and is a norm in periodical publication. In online newspaper editions it is not nearly as consistent, so some research should go in to evaluating what GNR's needs are for this piece of content.

The Administrative Content type will also contain any editorial corrections to previous editions. Blank pages which apparently serve as space holders for full page advertisements were also identified as administrative. The exact purpose of the placeholders is uncertain, and while in all probability these inserts are not going to end up as content online, it would probably be a good idea to visit this topic with GNR to see if this is actually an opportunity for additional paid content in the online edition. The occasional purely decorative graphic also was categorized as administrative content.

Administrative Content Conclusions

GNR Administrative Content takes on multiple forms and appears in a variety of places within the paper. There appears to be flexibility in where these items appear within each edition. The only item that is consistent is the boilerplate. Online, it will be important to continue to place recurring items like the boilerplate in a consistent location.

With the exception of the publisher's boilerplate, most of the administrative items will likely disappear. One interesting issue is that of corrections, and whether they can be made directly to the story, or if there is a business need to list them separately. This points to a powerful difference between print and online media. Print is much slower to change, and there is much more of an expectation that it is authoritative in the sense that what appears, appears as it was written. By comparison, web media is widely considered works-in-progress; it is considered less authoritative, but there is a much greater emphasis on the idea of minimal-latency content.

Content Inventory Conclusions

Of the insights that were gained from the content inventory process, there was probably none of greater importance than confronting the dueling importance of News Content vs. Paid Content. This goes beyond trite comparisons between them to a real appreciation of the role paid content has as a vital part of the content of the paper. Clearly, a lot of thought has to go into preserving the synergies and affinities between ads and between ads and news.

One of the interesting discoveries around this issue was seeking useful measurements of unpaid vs. paid content. Due to the high number of individual classified ads and ads overall, ads vastly outnumber unpaid content items in the inventory data. A truer picture of the balance between them could only be gained by assigning column inches to each item and comparing them on that basis.

Nevertheless this isn't the end of the issue. Finding ways to publish these numerous paid content items within a navigational hierarchy that is based largely on paid content is going to be an interesting challenge. Furthermore, the abundance of paid content items really points to the reality that placing ads (and everything that implies) must actually be one of the most laborious parts of the newspaper publishing process. Likewise the workflow to make a web version of the paper will also have to focus on ad placement – well beyond industry norms of cycling ads.

In conclusion, the phased conversion of paper to electronic has really begun now that the content inventory has been completed. This deliverable and its complementary dataset will continue to generate fruitful insights and act as an important measure of the content that will be transformed into a Web version.
